

David Brown

Partner
Paris

david.brown@clydeco.com

David joined Clyde & Co in February 2010 and is a partner based out of our Paris Office.

He has over 20 years' experience of a wide range of international construction and dispute resolution matters in all five continents.

His projects experience covers energy, infrastructure and utilities, and in recent years he has been particularly involved with the nuclear industry.

David's dispute resolution experience notably involves international arbitration (particularly under the ICC Rules), as both counsel and arbitrator, concerning a broad range of commercial matters in addition to construction. He is also very active in Dispute Board proceedings, as well as a regular speaker on international construction and dispute resolution subjects in Europe and further afield.

David is listed as a leading construction lawyer in Who's Who Legal, and is recommended for Dispute Resolution in European Legal Experts. He also features as a recommended practitioner in the PLC Cross-Border Construction and Projects Handbook for high-end international projects.
